

SAFE SPORT FOR ALL PARTICIPANTS IN THE INTERNATIONAL BATON TWIRLING FEDERATION

MISSION STATEMENT

Everyone in sport has the right to be protected from non-accidental violence, harassment and abuse irrespective of their race, color, sex, sexual orientation, language, religion, political or other opinion, national or social origin, property, birth, disability, physical attributes, athletic ability or other status.

Non-accidental violence includes all forms of harassment and abuse and occurs worldwide. It is important to increase awareness of the indicators and impact of all forms of non-accidental violence.

All participants in IBTF need to know how to raise concerns and be confident that these will be responded to by their National Federation, their National Olympic Committee, Sports Authorities, or the IBTF in keeping with the IBTF Policies and Procedures. Everyone should be aware of the avenues and means open to them for assistance and support.

The IBTF has implemented measures to prevent and respond to incidents of non-accidental violence, harassment and abuse. It is the responsibility of each national federation to adopt and implement such policies and procedures to protect their athletes and other participants in IBTF. They must demonstrate strong leadership by identifying and eradicating unacceptable practices.

SAFE SPORT

Policy and Procedures

This policy is adapted from the policy developed by The International Gymnastics Federation/Fédération Internationale de Gymnastique (FIG) and Sport Ireland. Any IBTF member country wishing to adapt this policy for its own use must acknowledge both FIG, Sport Ireland and IBTF in its policy.

PART 1

IBTF POLICY

for Safeguarding and Protecting Participants

in Baton Twirling

1. INTRODUCTION

Sport organizations and everyone in sport, has the responsibility to foster a safe, respectful culture so that athletes can thrive without harassment, abuse, or violence.

IBTF is committed to strengthen the support offered to all its members by putting the athletes, their safety, well-being, and welfare, at the center of everything we do.

Everyone in sport has the right to be protected from non-accidental violence, harassment, and abuse irrespective of their race, color, sex, sexual orientation, language, religion, political or other opinion, national or social origin, property, birth, disability, physical attributes, athletic ability, or other status. Article 19 of the United Nations Convention on the Rights of the Child enshrines the right for all children (defined as anyone under the age of 18) to be safe from violence.

All sport organizations must implement measures to prevent and respond to incidents of non-accidental violence, harassment, and abuse. The effectiveness of such measures depends on the IBTF and its national federations, to increase awareness of the indicators and impact of all forms of non-accidental violence. Everyone in Baton Twirling needs to know how to raise concerns and be confident that these will be responded to in line with their National Federation and/or the IBTF's Policy and Procedures. Everyone should be aware of the avenues and means open to them for assistance and support.

2. CURRENT CONTEXT

Non-accidental violence includes all forms of harassment and abuse, both physical and psychological, and occurs worldwide. Sport is not immune. Evidence and research of recent and non-recent incidents of abuse and harassment is alarming, and it occurs at all levels of sport.

We all share in the responsibility to identify the problems and to prevent athletes from suffering.

The International Olympic Committee, in its Agenda 2020 has made strong recommendations to international federations and has provided a framework outlining the key components required for athlete welfare.

The IOC has developed two consensus statements related to the prevention of harassment and abuse in sport:

- 1) IOC Consensus statement: Sexual Harassment and abuse in Sport (2007)
- 2) IOC Consensus statement: Harassment and Abuse in Sport (2016)

The IBTF fully endorses this framework and is committed to these principles.

These IOC Consensus Statements and basic universal principles of Good Governance encompass safeguarding. Organizations that belong to the Olympic movement are expected to adopt these principles, implement relevant measures, and monitor compliance by sport organizations.

The IOC has developed the Safeguarding Athletes from Harassment and Abuse in Sport Toolkit for International Federations and National Olympic Committees (NOCs). The International Safeguarding Children in Sport has also produced guidelines to assist sport organizations. These are valuable tools to assist in the development of policies and procedures for Safeguarding.

To assist the member federations, the IBTF is developing supporting documents, policy and procedures which are intended to serve as the acceptable standards when adopting and implementing national safeguarding systems.

Everyone in Baton Twirling has the responsibility to identify and respond to harassment and abuse. Our national federations must demonstrate strong leadership by identifying and eradicating unacceptable practices and implementing preventative programs.

It will be the responsibility of each national federation to adopt and implement such policies. The IBTF is also developing educational material and providing opportunities to share case studies of best practice to further assist our member federations.

The IBTF will establish an independent Baton Twirling Ethics Committee which will be responsible for receiving and responding to concerns raised under this policy. To this end, the Committee will be organized as follows:

1. An Independent Safeguarding Section with a helpdesk for participants in Baton Twirling (athletes, officials, judges, etc.). This is a responsibility of, and shall be provided by, the country hosting the IBTF event.
2. A Disciplinary Section with two distinct groups (Disciplinary Committee and Appeals Committee) as defined in the policies and Code of Conduct of the IBTF.
3. A Compliance Section responsible to oversee good governance within the IBTF authorities in accordance with IBTF rules and regulations.

The IBTF itself will designate a Safeguarding Manager, as member of staff, who will be responsible for:

- Education resources
- Information and awareness programs
- Support of NFs
- Strengthening IBTF rules and codes concerning safeguarding.

3. DEFINITIONS OF NON-ACCIDENTAL VIOLENCE, HARASSMENT AND ABUSE

Harassment and abuse can be expressed in many forms which may occur in combination or in isolation. The following are based on the IOC Consensus Statement (2016) as follows:

Psychological abuse

- Any unwelcome act including confinement, isolation, verbal assault, humiliation, intimidation, infantilization, or any other treatment, which may diminish an individual sense of identity, dignity, and self-worth

Physical abuse

- Any deliberate and unwelcome act – such as punching, beating, kicking, biting, and burning – that causes physical trauma or injury. Such acts include forced or inappropriate physical activity (e.g., age, or physically inappropriate and unreasonable training loads or activities, when injured or in pain), forced alcohol or drug consumption or forced doping practices.

Sexual harassment

- Any unwanted and unwelcome conduct of a sexual nature, whether verbal, non-verbal or physical. Sexual harassment can take the form of sexual abuse.

Sexual abuse

- Conduct of a sexual nature, whether non-contact, contact or penetrative, where consent is coerced or manipulated, and is not, or cannot be given.

Neglect

- Neglect means the failure of a coach or other person with a duty of care towards the athlete to provide a minimum level of care, which may cause harm, allow harm or create an imminent danger of harm.

Harassment and abuse can be based on any grounds including race or ethnic origin, culture, religion or belief, gender, sexual orientation, age, disability socio-economic status, physical attributes, and athletic ability. It can include a one-off (one time) incident, or a series of incidents. It may be in person or online. Harassment may be intentional, unsolicited, and coercive.

Harassment and abuse often result from an abuse of authority, meaning the misuse of power by people in positions of trust, influence, and authority (perceived or actual), against another individual. Some athletes may also carry out acts of harassment and abuse. For young people under the age of eighteen, peer abuse describes incidents when an athlete is exploited, bullied and/or harmed by another athlete or groups of athletes of similar age.

The means and methods by which harassment and abuse is carried out include: contact, non-contact, verbal and abuse by means of electronic communications.

It may involve deliberate acts as well as failure to act and omissions or may take the form of bullying which is defined as follows:

Bullying

- Intentional behaviour usually repeated over time that hurts another individual or group.

4. PURPOSE

The overall purpose of the policy is to ensure athletes and others taking part in Baton Twirling can do so without fear of harassment or abuse. The key objectives of the policy are to:
